Re: No. 23-1078: B.P.J. v. West Virginia State Board of Education, et al.

Dear Ms. Connor:

Plaintiff-Appellant recently filed a notice of supplemental authority. See ECF No. 150. But Doe v. Horne, No. CV-23-185, 2023 WL 4661831 (D. Ariz. July 20, 2023), affords no reason to reverse here.

First, Horne found no “persuasive evidence at the preliminary injunction stage” to establish that the law at issue there advanced legitimate governmental interests. ECF No. 150-2, at 15. Yet here, the district court ruled on a complete record at the summary-judgment stage—and found that that the fuller record showed how West Virginia’s law did advance legitimate state interests.

Second, Horne summarily dismissed evidence showing biological differences between prepubescent males and females, ECF No. 150-2, at 14, and ignored other evidence showing physiological differences between males and females at birth, id. at 9. But physiological differences between males and females before and after puberty are relevant to sex-based classifications for sports. The former can persist through puberty, while the latter may arise even among those students taking hormones or puberty blockers.

Third, Horne applied the wrong standard. It faulted Arizona for failing to show that the specific plaintiffs would “have any athletic advantage over other girls,” ECF No. 150-2, at 14 and for using a “rationale” that could apply to “taller than average girls,” id. at 10. But intermediate scrutiny—which applies here—does not require the law to target every athlete. See Ross v. Early, 746 F.3d 546, 553 (4th Cir. 2014); see also Clark, By & Through Clark v. Ariz. Interscholastic Ass’n, 695 F.2d 1126, 1131 (9th Cir. 1982). That’s strict scrutiny.

Fourth, Horne concluded that the athletes there “would not be able to participate in any school sports.” ECF No. 150-2, at 14. In contrast, B.P.J. can still compete on coed teams and teams comprising biological boys.

Fifth, Horne determined that biological boys identifying as girls will not displace biological girls in sports. ECF No. 150-2, at 6, 14. As B.P.J.’s circumstances show, the same is not true in West Virginia. See, e.g., ECF No. 142-1, at 14-18.

Thus, Horne notwithstanding, the Court should affirm.

Sincerely,

PATRICK MORRISEY
ATTORNEY GENERAL
